

CENTURY has demonstrated expertise in assembling complex products. We use a global supplier network to make the best possible sourcing decisions to deliver a high quality final product.

CENTURY has proven experience in starting up a purpose built production facility and our personnel have a good understanding of transferring technology, know-how and ensuring your intellectual property is protected.

A significant part of our service package involves generating ideas to improve planning, cost down initiatives and design improvements for better manufacture and product performance.

If you are looking to manufacture a new product or outsource some of your existing manufacturing CENTURY has the expertise to manage the entire process.
